In this paper, I present an approach to conflict resolution that unifies logic, goal- reduction and condition-action rules in a cognitive model of intelligent agent. The approach uses goal hierarchies to reconcile goal conflicts by finding alternative, logically consistent ways of solving higher-level goals.

It includes a set of logistical tools to optimize the flow of work—whether product, service, or project—through the system, and a set of logic trees to identify core system problems (constraints), design and test solutions, and structure implementation plans.

We show that the logic-based framework handles stratified negation in both rules and intensional predicates. Our approach is different from the rewriting used in [FG01].

Language-based approaches to access control Recently, there has been considerable research interest in language-based approaches to access control [6, 19, 40, 41, 66, 72, 73]. The goal is to provide a language that can support multiple access-control policies and achieve separation of policies from mechanisms.

EVALUATION MODELS, APPROACHES, AND DESIGNSâ€”103 purposes. As with utilization-focused evaluation, the major focusing question is, â€œWhat are the information needs of those closest to the program?â€• Empowerment Evaluation. This approach, as defined by Fetterman (2001), is the â€œuse of evaluation concepts, techniques, and findings to foster ...
