Recently, enabling modularity aspects in Answer Set Programming (ASP) has gained increasing interest to ease the composition of program parts to an overall program. In this paper, we focus on modular nonmonotonic logic programs (MLP) under the answer set semantics, whose modules may have contextually dependent input provided by other modules.

result shows that logic programming as well as many major formalisms to nonmonotonic and defeasible reasoning in AI and logic programming [R,M,MD,P1,D1,GL,KKT,SL] are argumentation systems. That means that all these systems are based on the same principle. They differ only by the structure of their arguments.
