There are many methods to investigate protein-protein interactions. Each of the approaches has its own strengths and weaknesses, especially with regard to the sensitivity and specificity of the method. A high sensitivity means that many of the interactions that occur in reality are detected by the screen.

Protein folding is the physical process by which a protein chain acquires its native 3-dimensional structure, a conformation that is usually biologically functional, in an expeditious and reproducible manner. It is the physical process by which a polypeptide folds into its characteristic and functional three-dimensional structure from random coil. Each protein exists as an unfolded polypeptide ...

G protein-coupled receptors (GPCRs) have been implicated in transmitting signals across the extra- and intra-cellular compartments, thus allowing environmental stimuli to elicit critical biological responses.

Glucoamylases are inverting exo-acting starch hydrolases releasing  $\beta$ -glucose from the non-reducing ends of starch and related substrates. The majority of glucoamylases are multidomain enzymes consisting of a catalytic domain connected to a starch-binding domain by an O-glycosylated linker region. Three-dimensional structures have been determined of free and inhibitor complexed glucoamylases ...

The study of protein misfolding and aggregation saw resurgence in the last decade. Aggregation is the main cause of several human neurodegenerative diseases which makes this field as the leading edge in the science today.

Ye et al. comprehensively analyzed alterations of clock genes and circadian rhythms across multiple human cancers and revealed strong interactions between clock genes and clinically actionable genes, which highlights the clinical utility of circadian timing in cancer chronotherapy.

Endogenous Responses in the Economic Models Distribute the Effects of Climate Change. Together with the assumption of no incremental yield effects from CO<sub>2</sub> fertilization, the mean biophysical effect of the climate change shock on yields (YEXO) of the four crop groups and 13 regions of the globe is a 17% decline. The distribution of the biophysical yield shocks (SD of  $\hat{\Delta} \pm 13\%$ ) arises from both ...
